

Christopher Bowman, "A Distinguished Sound," page 30

1. What kinds of divides exist in your congregation? Do generations think differently? What about insiders and outsiders? What ways do these groups think differently about: family, church, education, politics, and change? Why do they all want to be part of the Church of the Brethren?
2. What are the benefits of having a variety of views in a single congregation? What are the drawbacks? Would you personally prefer a range of beliefs in your